Two Men Blew Up Safe At
Dover, N. H., Early This Morning and Then Calmly
Took Train, Being Later
Held Up.

Rockingham Junction, N. H., Feb. 10.—Early this morning the shoe factory of Luddy & Currier, in Dover, was entered and the safe was blown, the burglars securing about $15. On the arrival of the "Sunrise" express here, Conductor Reeves received word to detain two men on the train who were suspected of the robbery.

Accompanied by the baggage master and a brakeman, Conductor Reeves entered the car and asked the men to show their grips and overcoats, whereupon both men drew revolvers and commanded "Hands up!"

The train hands and passengers quickly complied and the two men walked out of opposite ends of the car. One passenger, an Italian, supposed to be Giuseppe Guiseppe, becoming frightened, attempted to escape from the car, and as he did so one of the desperadoes shot him five times in the neck, killing him. The men then ran down the track toward Stratham.

Sheriff and police from Portsmouth, Dover, Newmarket and Exeter are scouring the woods and the snow lie thick it is believed that the men will be captured soon.

FROlicked IN THE SNOW.

Chinese Visitors Took Their First Sleigh Ride Yesterday.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Viceroy Tuan Fang and Tai Hung Chi, the imperial Chinese commissioners, enjoyed the first sleigh ride of their lives here yesterday, after spending several hours visiting Cornell university. When the members of the party awoke in their special train, sidetracked at the railway station, six inches of snow covered the ground. While en route for the campus on a trolley car, the visitors took much interest in passing sleighs and expressed a desire to ride in one.

When the programme at the university was concluded, late in the afternoon, the party took a long drive into the country. The party left Ithaca at midnight bound for Niagara Falls.

REDS HURLED BOMB
AMONG WORKINGMEN

Two Were Killed and Eighteen Injured
Last Night—A Great Many Arrests
Were Made—Other Outbreaks
Expected.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—The war between the "fighting organizations" of the revolutionists and the so-called black hundreds assumed a new phase last night when a band of reds surrounded the Carabel Schusselberg-Chaussee on the bank of the Newsky river, above the city, and threw a bomb among an assemblage of workingmen. The reds then opened fire on the panic-stricken inmates of the cabaret, killing two and seriously wounding eighteen, of which later one died while being taken to the hospital.

Military detachments, which are constantly patrolling the turbulent industrial suburbs, hurried to the scene of the disturbance, reinforced by dragons and police from the city and threw a cordon around the whole district. Most of the revolutionists made off at the approach of the troops, but a few bold spirits remained and offered a desultory resistance to the encircling soldiers. Wholesale arrests were made last night.

The bomb, which was hurled through a window into the main room of the restaurant, exploded with a terrific noise and demolished almost the entire building. A wooden partition was blown out and much furniture, glass and crockery was shattered. The ruins were splattered with liquor and blood and pieces of flesh, the whole presenting a sickening sight.

The restaurant had been some time known as a resort of the lower order of workingmen and rough characters who were believed to be in the pay of the police and were accused not only of furnishing information about revolutionists, but also of sallying out at night and conducting searches on their own account, and beating students who were members of the opposition faction.

HAS A "REAL DAUGHTER OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION"

Springfield, Vermont, Presents the Name of Sarah Clark Bingham, Who Was Born in Rockingham on December 17, 1819.

Springfield, Feb. 10.—Springfield has a "real daughter of the American Revolution" in the person of Miss Sarah Clark Bingham, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. George Ely at West Springfield, about three miles from this village. There being only two or three "real daughters" now living in Vermont, it makes this interesting lady a person of wider interest than the limits of her own family and town.

Sarah Clark Bingham was born in Rockingham near the Springfield line, on Parker hill, December 17, 1819. She is the youngest child of John Clark Bingham by his second wife, Silence (Cobb) Harlow of Springfield and was the fifth child born to them. They were married Oct. 28, 1810.

John Clark Bingham came to Springfield from Marlow as a boy of 10 years and enlisted in an old hotel that stood on the east side of the river at Gould's mills, about two miles from here, July 13, 1781. The recruiting officer under whom he enlisted was Ira Allen, brother of Gen. Ethan Allen. He was assigned to service in Capt. Jonathan White's company in Col. Samuel Fletcher's battalion and remained in the service as long as the organization existed.

His record in this company is shown on page 354 of the Vermont Revolutionary rolls, and later service is shown on page 302 of the same volume.

The daughters of the American Revolution has recently had Miss Sarah Clark Bingham proven to them as a "real daughter," and she will soon receive from the national organization in Washington the gold souvenir spoon to which all such persons are entitled.

King Edward presided the electric button that released the warship and sent her gliding gracefully into the water without mishap. The ceremony was a brilliant affair, but owing to the recent death of King Christian, Portsmouth was not decorated.

STRAIN WAS TOO MUCH.

Helen Keller, Blind Girl, Gives Up Her Studies.

Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 10.—The physical and mental strain of Helen Keller's course at Radcliffe college and the subsequent work which the deaf, dumb and blind woman has been doing to aid those similarly afflicted, have made her ill. Her physician has ordered rest and all work which Miss Keller had in hand and several engagements to appear at public meetings in aid of the blind have been given up. Her friends feel confident that she will ultimately regain her strength.

Miss Keller's condition was reported as slightly improved yesterday afternoon. Mr. Keller explained that she had no disease, but was suffering from exhaustion. He did not consider Miss Keller's condition dangerous, or so serious as to occasion any alarm among her friends.

LONGWORTH
IS ILL IN BED

Miss Alice Roosevelt's Fiance Had a Fever

BUT IS BETTER TODAY

His Physician Declares That the Present
Illness Will Not Interfere With the Wedding, Which Is Scheduled for February 17.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Congressman Nicholas Longworth's condition is improving, and he takes this morning, Feb. 10, at the White House, at the request of John E. Gale, associate counsel. Mr. Longworth is now in bed, Dr. Compton says his patient's condition is satisfactory. He has tonsillitis, but there is not the slightest probability that the present illness will cause a postponement of the wedding scheduled for Feb. 17th.

One week from today Congressman Longworth and Miss Alice Roosevelt, daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be married, if nothing occurs to interfere.

Mr. Longworth has been suffering with a cold for several days and was not feeling well when he went to the House of Representatives Thursday morning. When he came home in the afternoon the cold had become aggravated somewhat and there was some fever.

Mr. Longworth also was suffering from swelling of a tonsil. On Mrs. Longworth's advice he took to his bed and a physician was called. He has remained in bed since that time. Yesterday the fever disappeared and Mr. Longworth was better. Both Mrs. Longworth and the physician express the belief that with a few days' rest and medical attention Mr. Longworth will be all right.

Mrs. Longworth stated last night, however, that the illness is not considered serious, that there is no reason for concern and that she expected her son would be well enough to come down stairs by Sunday.

TO AVOID CRUSH.

President Asks Pardon If Any Were Omitted.

Washington, Feb. 10.—President Roosevelt has authorized the following statement, which was given out at the White House yesterday:

"The President and Mrs. Roosevelt ask the kind consideration of many friends who would under ordinary circumstances receive invitations to Miss Roosevelt's wedding. The capacity of the White House required that many existing circumstances invitations be limited to the closest kinfolk, the personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth, and certain classes of officials in Washington. No friends of the President or Mrs. Roosevelt are being asked unless they come under one of these classes, and even with these limitations the number of guests threatens to overtax the capacity of the White House."

HAD TO HOLD HIM
BY HIS COAT TAILS

Says John H. Senter of Attorney General Fitts, Whose Disbarment Case
Is Now Being Heard.

Brattleboro, Feb. 10.—The first witness in the disbarment proceeding yesterday against Attorney General C. C. Fitts of this place was John H. Senter of Montpelier, who was called into the Prescott-Bartlett case as attorney for D. P. Prescott in February, 1903, at the request of John E. Gale, associate counsel. Mr. Senter denied any unprofessional conduct on the part of Mr. Fitts, saying: "Mr. Fitts was so zealous in Prescott's behalf that I had to hold him down by his coat tails." Mr. Senter testified that Mr. Fitts worked hard in the case, but criticized the report of the referee, saying: "It was the most corrupt report I ever saw."

In his testimony Thursday afternoon, D. P. Prescott claimed that he was wronged by the failure of Mr. Fitts to prevent the attorney for Charles Bartlett from raising the ad damnum in the writ in the Prescott-Bartlett suit from $1,500 to $4,000. In an undisputed statement James L. Martin showed the ad damnum was raised at the suggestion of Mr. Bartlett's lawyers, Waterman and Martin, and that such a proceeding was a common and a legitimate practice; and further, that Mr. Fitts was in Boston at the time it was raised. Mr. Prescott's interests being protected by John E. Gale and A. F. Schvink, associate counsel.

Mr. Prescott was cross examined yesterday, but nothing of material importance was brought out.

At the close of the cross examination, the master of the Richards check was taken up. It is alleged that Mr. Fitts protected George E. Richards, a liquor seller, in consideration of the fact that Richards gave a check for $130 to pay a bill which Fitts owed. C. C. Miller of this place, employed at the American house, the hotel conducted by Richards, while Mr. Fitts was state's attorney of Windham county, was placed on the stand. He testified that liquor was sold at the American house at that time and that a United States license hung in the bar room. He said Mr. Fitts was a table boarder at the hotel at the time, but he never saw him in the bar room. He said Mr. Fitts rarely went through the office, but directly through the corridor to the dining room.

DIGGING BARRE OUT OF
HUGH SNOW BANK

Small Army of Men, With Horses, at Work Today Making Up for the Storm's Activity on Yesterday.

The work of digging Barre out of the huge snow bank which was caused by yesterday's extraordinary heavy storm, was begun in earnest early this morning, and by this afternoon the streets and sidewalks were in pretty good shape. The storm gave work to many people who have been looking for just such kind of employment.

At 3:30 this morning Supt. of Streets Fred Bruce started his snow plows on the side streets and later added men and horses, until by mid-day he had a small army at work. All told there were 43 horses, eight plows, two big snow rollers, 16 shovellers and 23 teamsters removing the white substance from the streets. In addition, the electric railroad had a four-horse scraper and their snow plow clearing the track on Main street. The city agreed to remove all the excess snow from that street and charge up a portion of the cost to the street railroad. The snow was dumped at Brooklyn street. In addition to the city and the railroad workmen, private individuals contributed to the really big work of removing the snow.

The street railroad didn't overcome the snow so that cars were running on time until late in the day. The snow, which was light in the first place, packed down during the night and made a strong barrier to progress. The steam roads also had their troubles. All the Central Vermont trains were so far off their schedule they might have waited a little while and then started in on time. The Williamstown branch was not dug out this forenoon so that it was passable, and the mail was sent up to that place by team.

"Kicker" Expresses Views On Street Railway Matter.

Editor Daily Times: The employees of the street railway enjoyed a fine night's rest, we hope. But the workmen who depend on the street cars to get to their work, a mile or more away, had to plow their way through the
